

Allendale Caravan Park

Summer Newsletter

Show Caravan on the Park

If you would like to have a look at the show caravan, you are very welcome to collect the keys from us and have a peep. If you are thinking of upgrading your caravan this year or next year, come and speak to us and tell us what you are interested in. We can keep an eye out with the dealers to look for your perfect used or new van

Because we have such a range of wildlife and wild flowers on the park, we applied for the David Bellamy Conservation Award for Caravan Parks in May. Someone will visit the park to assess us in the summer. Now we need your help!

Over 20 Caravan Owners and visitors must send back special postcards to David Bellamy, telling him about the park. There is a draw for a holiday from the cards he receives (from all parks, not just us, unfortunately). You can fill in more than one if you like. Tell him about any changes.

Cards need a stamp, but you can post them in the special envelope at the notice board and we will pay for postage to send them off as a group.

Will we get one of these awards?

Railway heritage

Tom Bell from the narrow gauge railway at Alston visited the park to take photos for a book he is writing on North Pennines railways. He sent us a photocopy of a 10 page article he wrote on 'our' Hexham – Allendale railway. It is written for railway techies, but is interesting. Borrow a copy from us for a read or buy at 50p - to cover photocopying (of which 25p goes to the South Tynedale Railway Preservation Society).

White Water – not rafting, drinking!
As you can't miss around Allendale, Northumbrian Water are doing major work replacing water mains. They say the 'white water' we have had sometimes is just air in the water when they turn on a pipe again. It happens because of the high water pressure around here and is safe to drink.

For Sale

Cosalt Baysdale
2004, new, 2 bed,
35'x12' for sale
at £19,945.48

Cosalt Torino
1997, 1 bed,
for sale at £5495

Welcome to new owners on the park.
• the Fawcus family and their chocolate brown labrador – seasoned caravanners now
• Mike and Fauzia Callaghan who have just come to their caravan

Best wishes for enjoyable holidays in your caravan this summer from Mike and Verona Woodhouse